Rheumatoid Arthritis is an inflammatory condition that chronically attacks the joints.

Rheumatoid arthritis is a very debilitating, disabling and painful disease. It leads to significant loss of mobility around the affected joint mostly due to pain and joint destruction

Rheumatoid arthritis is relentless in its progression and early detection means early treatment of the disease.

In the Rheumatology and Physical Medicine Department we offer early diagnosis and detection of the disease and advanced therapies, including the latest anti-TNF biological agents, disease modifying drugs, in addition to physical modalities, hydrotherapy and splinting.
