The Rheumatology and Physical Medicine Department provides, a state of the art spinal care (back and neck), through scientific and modern methods of diagnosis and treatment.

In order to achieve meaningful and effective treatment, many advanced diagnostic spinal techniques are used, including Isometric and Dynamic Spinal Evaluation, Postural analysis and Electromyography.

Evidence based rehabilitation methods could be initiated with MedX technology. It isolates and treats the weak links in the spine which contribute to nagging chronic back and neck pain. In addition various modalities of Electrotherapy, Hydrotherapy, Laser and Progressive Resistance Exercise protocols are also applied.

Spinal Decompression device could be very effective to treat the slipped disc at lower back and neck. Ergonomic evaluation and postural correction is also a main part of the overall back and neck rehabilitation.
